

BEST PRACTICE- I:

Title of the Practice: Design and development of Mentoring System to groom students.

Objectives of the Practice:

- a. Induction into organizations climate and culture
- b. To provide psychological support
- c. To give guidance on career development.

The Context:

Students admitted to the institution are young adults. They belong to both genders and usually are of 18 years age. The students come from various backgrounds. They may come from rural, semiurban and urban areas, the family back grounds vary from poor, middle income to rich, the medium of instructions mostly would have been the local language and also they come from different parts of the state.

Thus, there is complete diversity among the students. Most of the students must have stepped out from their homes for the first time and are suddenly exposed to a huge college environment. Hence, the students would be confused and require considerable time to adjust. Hence, the proteges need encouragement, advice and feedback, as well as enhanced sense of competence, effectiveness, and clarity of identity. Also, students of higher classes need career counselling. They need sponsorship, coaching, protection, exposure, visibility and encouragement. Catering to these requirements of students, considering their diversity has become a development challenge and an important human resource management strategy for the institution. Approaching the issue in a systematic manner is of paramount importance.

The Practice:

A well-built mentoring system is in existence in the institution. The process of student counselling starts the moment he/she enters the institute in I Year B.E and continues throughout his/her stay. Faculty members are appointed as Counsellors to take care of the students. Each counsellor is allotted with 20 students. Counselling hours are incorporated in the time tables and every student will get one counselling hour per week. During the counselling hour, the counsellor sits with the students and interacts with them. Every minutest aspect of students with regard to academics and career are brought to the notice of the counsellor. Extra care will be taken for the slow learners by suggesting them to attend remedial classes without fail and the same is also monitored by the counsellor. Before the process of counselling begins, the counsellors insist upon the students to set their goal in the first year itself. The students are advised to set short term goals, midterm goals and finally long-term goals. It is strongly believed that goal setting alone paves the way for 50 success in their academics. At the end of the counselling hour, the minutes of the counselling are noted down in the counselling book which is exclusively meant for mentoring system. The counselling books subsequently follow the students when they are promoted to next level i.e, from first year to second year and so on. The same counsellor will counsel the student until fourth year. In this way, the counseling book consists of every student's month wise attendance, internal marks, external marks etc. These counseling books are kept with the respective HoD's permanently even after the students pass out. During counseling students' marks, attendance, behaviors and so on are brought to the notice of their parents. This mechanism helps a lot to develop teacherparent relationship. In consultation with the parents, the teachers establish strong grounds for the holistic development of the students.

Evidence of Success:

Students are made to learn goal-oriented approach and devote their valuable time for professional development. Under this motivation, students taking part in conferences, seminars, workshops, symposiums etc. without hesitation and put out feelers to find new horizons of learning. Mentoring System in the institute keeps students busy in curricular and cocurricular activities. This is the major reason for increase of attendance of students resulting in alleviation of the number of dropouts. The system helps create congenial learning atmosphere in which students successfully complete their courses without back logs. The system also helps to develop a good studentrelationship which ensures ragging free campus.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

The problems encountered in implementing student learning process are multifold. The major problem is initially majority of the students are hesitant to learn because of their backgrounds. It takes time to abdicate their resistance to change attitude. As soon as they enter the institute, they remain in a shell and do not exchange information required with the mentor's in spite of their advancements. Another big problem is the students try to escape to attend mentoring classes on the pretext of other unnecessary works. In addition to these, another major problem is establishing relationship with the parents of the students. Irrespective of the different approaches of mentors, the response of the parents is still desired. As far as resources required in overcoming the impediments, a number of orientation programmes have to be arranged and field trips are required in order to shun the hesitation from the students.

Notes: Mentoring system in the institute is reaping enormous benefits to the student community. The process of mentoring begins with setting goal to each student as soon as he/she enters the campus which automatically leads to career advancement. During this process, every student is emphasized on the need of objectives required to march forward towards the set goal.

BEST PRACTICE-II :

Title of the Practice: Comprehensive training for students

Objectives of the Practice:

- To provide training in employability skills for gainful placement in industry
- To deliver domain skills for progression to Higher Education in Engineering/allied areas
- To imbibe attitude and develop skills among students for entrepreneurship

The Context:

The education objectives set for the program are providing gainful placement / promoting progression to Higher Education / developing aptitude for entrepreneurship among students. With the diversity of students - social and academic, the need for attaining program outcomes needs a definite add-on program as training. The short term training doesn't help student learn holistically, hence comprehensive training (four years) has been planned to produce productive alumni. This program delivers - goal setting, career planning, training and progression to success post completion of course. The imperative needs to develop students for future, training plan encompassing the life cycle of the program need to be organized.

The Practice:

Training need analysis is conducted to identify their interest (Higher Education/ Career/Entrepreneurship)

Training plan is prepared and embedded into the time table for implementation

Interaction with experts from industries and high impact training from professional organization are organized

- Continuous assessment of training through standardized online tests offered by popular portals
- Feedback from students on training and remedial sessions for enhancing the impact
- Liaison with IT & core companies for student placement

• Evidence of Success:

- Increased rate of placement in corporate and government firms
- Enhanced number of students taking admissions in Higher Education in Engineering/Management in India & abroad
- Increase in number of alumni start-ups and better awareness on entrepreneurship

Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

Problems:

1. Understanding the need analysis of students
2. Embedded the training plan with curriculum

Resources Required:

1. Identification of experts and good training agencies for top-up events
2. Strong internal teams to handle training and associated logistics

Notes:

Since attainment of the program outcomes is reflected in achieving quantitative success factors in placement, progression & Higher Education and entrepreneurship continuous internal training becomes a critical quality initiative.
